Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

I am taking a course in the fall of this year but I will not receive grades until January so I will not submit the claim for reimbursement until after the New Year. Will this count against this year's cap or next year's cap?

The cap is based on the money reimbursed in a calendar year regardless of when the classes were taken. U.S. tuition reimbursements occur after the employee successfully completes the course(s), and within 60 days of successful completion submits original receipts and documentation for each course(s) to HR Connections, 4AB or HR Connections, PO Box 2400, Bartlesville, OK. 74003. Consequently in the above example, even though the courses were taken in the previous year, the following year's cap would be affected. The reimbursement amount will accumulate towards and not-to-exceed the "annual calendar year tuition cap" i.e. $4,000 undergraduate or $8,500 advanced degree limits.

The year in which the reimbursement is received, not the year in which the employee took the course, is the same year in which the reimbursement amount will be applied to the annual cap. Per policy, reimbursement requests must be submitted within 60 days after successful completion of each course, not after the calendar year.

Whose responsibility is it to find out if the college I am interested in attending is accredited?

Employees have the responsibility to thoroughly investigate the credentials of the college/universities/program prior to seeking approval for tuition reimbursement. If employees want to validate an institution's accreditation, he or she can ask the institution for proof of accreditation and then verify that with the American Council on Education or the U.S. Department of Education (for online validation visit U.S. Department of Education Office of Postsecondary Education). Employees can also check the institution's listing in Accredited Institutions of Postsecondary Education Programs Candidates. This resource book is published annually and lists institutions which have been evaluated by recognized accrediting bodies and found to meet acceptable levels of educational quality and financial stability.

Are reimbursements taxable?

If the reimbursement for a year exceeds $5,250 and a pre-determined taxable or non-taxable ruling has not been obtained prior to enrolling in the course(s) (Tuition Reimbursement Tax Questionnaire) - (19KB .PDF), the excess amount up to the $8,500 annual limit will be a taxable event to the employee.

Can an employee be disqualified for reimbursement?

Yes, under any of the following conditions. Reimbursement will not be approved for any employee who:

- Does not successfully pass or complete the courses (specific exceptions are listed in the following FAQ),
- Does not provide the required grade and cost documentation,
- Does not obtain pre-approval and reimbursement approval signatures from supervisor(s),
- Does not obtain all additional appropriate approvals for advanced degrees,
- Did not submit Advanced Degree Repayment Commitment and Authorization for Salary Deduction form (17KB.PDF) to HR Connections, 4AB or HR Connections, PO Box 2400, Bartlesville, OK, 74003 in advance of course enrollment (required for Advanced Degrees only),
- Reimbursement request does not reach HR Connections, 4AB or HR Connections, PO Box 2400,

Bartlesville, OK, 74003 (or the appropriate payroll processing entity for locations outside of the US) within 60 days after completion of each course,

- Has given indication that employment will be sought or accepted elsewhere or has voluntarily terminated before the reimbursement is processed.

Are incomplete courses ever eligible for reimbursement?

Yes. The policy will reimburse the difference between your covered costs and the amount (if any) the school reimbursements when you withdraw from a course for one or more of the following reasons:

- Active military service
- On-the-job accident at Phillips 66
- Company-initiated change to working hours/work location or unanticipated business travel
- Company-initiated termination for reason other than "cause"
- Death of the employee (estate to receive reimbursement)

If you need to withdraw from a course for the above reasons, you should (or your supervisor, in the case of death) withdraw as soon as possible to receive the maximum amount of reimbursement available from the institution. A note of explanation and record of the institution's reimbursement must accompany the Tuition Reimbursement Policy Application for Active U.S. Employees that you submit for reimbursement processing.

Administrative Guidelines

For non-US based institutions that are not accredited under US National Accreditation guidelines, endorsement by the local country Human Resources Business Partner is required.

Each time an employee begins a new semester or enrolls in their next round of course(s), they must first obtain 1st and 2nd line supervisor pre-approval of those individual course(s) on a new application. A new application is required for each semester or round of course(s).
